IMPACT STORY

KALABURAGI, KARNATAKA • WICKET-KEEPER • CAPTAIN, DISTRICT TEAM

IMRAN PASHA

The loudest voice on the field

Imran Pasha thought an accident had ended his cricket. Now he keeps wicket and captains his district side.

A BOY WHO ALWAYS PLAYED

Imran played street cricket every evening as a boy in Kalaburagi, usually as the one shouting instructions. His uncle ran a cycle shop near the bus stand and Imran spent his afternoons there, learning to fix anything with a screw in it.

At nineteen a road accident cost him his left leg below the knee. For a year he stayed away from the ground. He told friends he was too busy at the shop; the truth was he did not want to be watched.

You see the whole game from behind the stumps.

— IMRAN

BACK BEHIND THE STUMPS

A friend took him, almost by force, to watch the district team practise. Nobody asked about his leg. Someone handed him gloves because the keeper had not turned up.

By the end of the session he was behind the stumps, shouting field changes, and the captain asked him to come back on Thursday.

HOW DEMO TRUST STOOD WITH IMRAN

The trust helped him get back on the field and into the district side, and later paid for the travel that took the team to its first state tournament.

WHAT THE TRUST PROVIDED

- ✓ Coaching camps
- ✓ Tournament travel

CHAPTER 3 • ON THE FIELD

SEEING THE WHOLE GAME

Imran keeps wicket because, he says, you see the whole game from there. He reads the batter's feet, moves the field and talks to his bowlers between every ball. His team-mates call him the loudest voice on the field.

In 2024 he was made captain of the district team. That season they won four of their six matches, their best record.

BEYOND THE BOUNDARY

LIFE OFF THE FIELD

He mentors younger players and is the person they call when they want to quit. He tells them about his own lost year, and that coming back was the best decision he made.

WORK AND INDEPENDENCE

He runs a mobile repair shop near the bus stand, the same street as his uncle's old cycle shop. Two of his team-mates work there part-time.

CHAPTER 5 • THE ROAD AHEAD

A GROUND FOR KALABURAGI

He wants a proper practice ground in Kalaburagi so players do not travel four hours for a camp.

A MESSAGE TO YOU

“Give us a ground, and we will fill it.”

— IMRAN PASHA
